FEDERAL STATUTES

28 U.S.C. § 1404	4
------------------------	---

INTRODUCTION

This Court should dismiss, transfer or stay the declaratory judgment action Vonage has filed in this jurisdiction. Patent litigation involving internet telephony (also known as Voice over Packet, Voice over IP, Voice over Internet, or VoIP) has been ongoing between the parties in the Northern District of Texas for some time. This summer, Nortel sought leave to add to that litigation the patents that are the subject of this declaratory judgment case. Vonage waited 30 days, and then, after filing objections to Nortel's motion for leave to amend, it initiated this case. Vonage's tactical filing in this jurisdiction is an attempt at forum shopping that should be rejected.

Vonage has told the Texas court that it would be "more than willing" to litigate these issues in Texas. This court should let it do so. Initiation of this duplicative action, while Nortel's motion to add its claims in Texas is pending, is nothing more than wasteful gamesmanship. Thus, if Nortel's pending motion to add its patents to the Texas litigation is granted, Vonage's action in this Court will be the second-filed action regarding these patents and should be dismissed. If Nortel's motion to consolidate its patent claims into the ongoing litigation in Texas is denied, this Court should grant Vonage its wish, and transfer the present case to the Northern District of Texas as a standalone action. In the event that Nortel's motion to add its patent claims remains pending at the time this motion is heard, Nortel respectfully requests that the Court stay the present action until that motion is finally resolved.

PROCEDURAL BACKGROUND

On July 27, 2004, Digital Packet Licensing, Inc. ("DPL"), a predecessor to Vonage, commenced a patent infringement action in the Northern District of Texas against AT&T Corp., SBC Communications, Inc., Sprint Corp., and Verizon Communications, Inc. Vonage Holding Corp. v. SBC Internet Services, Inc., 4:04-548 (N.D. Texas) (the "Texas Action"). (See Ex. 1, Civil Docket for Case 4:04-548.) DPL alleged infringement of U.S. Patent No. 4,782,485, a patent which DPL asserted was related to VoIP telecommunication. In subsequent correspondence and filings, DPL alleged that certain of the defendants in the Texas Action infringed the '485 patent because they had installed and were operating VoIP equipment purchased from Nortel. On March 17, 2005, Nortel filed a declaratory judgment for noninfringement and invalidity with respect to the '485 Patent and another related patent, U.S. Patent No. 5,018,136. DPL's infringement action and Nortel's declaratory judgment action were consolidated by the Texas Court.

DPL later assigned to Vonage its right, title and interest in the '485 and '136 Patents (as well as U.S. Patent No. 5,444,707) and DPL then moved the Texas court to substitute Vonage for itself as a party to the consolidated action. On November 21, 2006, the Texas Court granted DPL's motion. As the new declaratory judgment defendant, Vonage answered Nortel's complaint on March 19, 2007 and asserted counterclaims alleging that Nortel's products infringed the '485, '136, and '707 Patents.¹ Nortel filed its Reply to Vonage's Counterclaims on April 9, 2007.

Unlike DPL, which had no business beyond licensing its patents to others, Vonage is a competitor of Nortel's customers and provides broadband telephone services and equipment for VoIP communications. Nortel is the owner of over 3,000 United States patents, including many involving VoIP. On July 17, 2007, Nortel moved for leave to amend its Reply in order to add claims that Vonage's broadband service and equipment infringe three Nortel VoIP patents: U.S. Patents Nos. 6,091,808, 6,445,695 and 7,050,861 (the "Nortel Asserted Patents"). Vonage opposed Nortel's motion for leave. That motion is now fully briefed and is pending in the Texas Action.

On August 17, 2007 -- ten days after filing its opposition to Nortel's motion for leave to amend and exactly a month after the motion for leave was initially filed -- Vonage sought to commence the present action requesting a declaratory judgment with respect to each of the Nortel Asserted Patents.

ARGUMENT

I. THIS ACTION SHOULD BE DISMISSED OR, IN THE ALTERNATIVE, TRANSFERRED OR STAYED

A. If Nortel's Motion to Add Claims in Texas is Granted, the Present Action Should be Dismissed

This case should be dismissed because it is likely to become the second-filed case between the parties concerning the infringement of the Nortel Asserted Patents. Under the first-filed rule, “[i]n all cases of concurrent jurisdiction, the court which first has possession of the subject must decide it.” Crosley Corp. v. Hazeltine Corp., 122 F.2d 925, 929 (3d Cir. 1941) (quoting Smith v. M'Iver, 22 U.S. 532, 535 (1824)). As a result, a second-filed action should be stayed or dismissed in favor of the first filed action. Peregrine Corp. v. Peregrine Indus., Inc., 769 F. Supp. 169, 174 (E.D. Pa. 1991) (“when there are two lawsuits involving the same parties and the same issues pending in two different courts, the first-filed action takes priority over the second-filed action and should proceed with the litigation”).

Here there is no allegation that the Texas Court would lack jurisdiction over the counterclaims Nortel has tendered to it. Nor can there be any dispute that the Texas Court “has possession of the subject” of the Nortel Asserted Patents, since they have been squarely presented to it for adjudication. Hence, if Nortel’s motion is granted in Texas, Nortel’s claims for infringement of the Nortel Asserted Patents should be considered the first-filed claim with respect to these patents. Vonage's declaratory judgment claim in this Court would then be considered the second-filed case, and immediate dismissal would be appropriate.

Even if Nortel had not been the first filer, dismissal of this action would still be appropriate in light of Vonage's blatant forum shopping. Rather than sticking with its initial choice of forum, rather than litigating all VoIP claims between the parties in the forum where the parties are already present, and rather than respecting Nortel's expressed preference to litigate its patents in Texas, Vonage asks that this controversy be heard here. It is unclear whether Vonage desires to be a defendant in Delaware or is reluctant to be one in Fort Worth, but it really does not matter. As this Court has noted, "Courts have rejected the first-to-file rule 'when the first-filing party instituted suit in one forum in anticipation of imminent judicial proceedings by opposing party's imminent suit in another, less favorable, forum.'" Time Warner Cable, Inc. v. GPNE Corp., 497 F. Supp. 2d 584, 590 (D. Del. 2007). Here, of course, there is not merely an "imminent judicial proceeding," there is an actual one. Whatever the source of Vonage's sudden fondness for Wilmington, it is not a proper basis for sustaining this action. See also Equal Employment Opportunity Comm'n v. Univ. of Pa., 850 F.2d 969, 976 (3d Cir. 1988), aff'd, 493 U.S. 182 (1990) ("Bad faith . . . and forum shopping have always been regarded as proper bases for departing from the [first-filed] rule").

B. If Nortel's Motion to Add Claims in Texas is Denied, the Present Action Should be Transferred

Even if Nortel's motion to bring its claims in the existing Texas Action were denied (for example, for scheduling reasons), this action should be transferred to the Northern District of Texas as a standalone case. Transfer pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1404 requires consideration of both public and private interests related to the action. Jumara v. State Farm Ins. Co., 55 F.3d 873, 879 (3d Cir. 1995) ("[w]hile there is no definitive formula or list of the factors to consider . . . courts have considered many variants of the private and public interests protected by the language of §1404(a)."). Private interests may include: plaintiff's forum choice; defendant's preference; convenience of the parties; convenience of the witnesses; and the location of books and records. Id. Public interests may include: enforceability of the judgment; practical considerations; the relative administrative difficulty in the two fora resulting from court congestion; and local interest in deciding local controversies at home. Id. at 879-80.

In this case, both the private and public interests would be served by transferring the case to the Northern District of Texas. Nortel has expressed its desire to litigate its patents in Texas by moving to add its patent claims to the pending Texas Action. Nortel confirms its desire to litigate in Texas by bringing the present motion. For its part, Vonage cannot complain that litigating the Nortel Asserted Patents in Texas would be unfair or inconvenient. Rather, seeking to disclaim its forum shopping to the Texas judge, Vonage has flat out said that "Vonage is more than willing to litigate the Nortel patents in [the Texas Court] provided Nortel's claims are litigated in a new and separate case." (Ex. 2, Vonage Motion for Leave to File Sur-Reply at 3.) Under these circumstances, the private interests favor litigating Nortel's patents claims in Texas.²

Likewise, the public interest also favors litigating the claims in Texas. Judge Means of the Northern District of Texas has been presiding over the Texas Action for years and has familiarity with the parties and the technology at issue. Coordinated discovery in Texas will prove to be more efficient than conducting a completely separate action in Delaware. Having the same Court overseeing the separate, but related, claims will also assure that inconsistent

² Convenience of the witnesses appears to be a non-factor. Neither party has any operations in this district. Vonage is based in New Jersey. Nortel has a substantial facility in Richardson, Texas, about 45 miles from Fort Worth, but it is unclear how many personnel from that facility will be called upon to testify. Other Nortel locations include Research Triangle Park in North Carolina; Brampton, Ontario; Santa Clara, California; Billerica, Massachusetts; Valbonne, France; and Maidenhead, UK.

determinations and positions are avoided. Because both the private and public interests would be best served by litigating Nortel's patents in Texas, this Court should transfer the current action to Judge Means in the Northern District of Texas.

C. If Nortel's Motion to Add Claims in Texas is not yet Decided, the Present Action Should be Stayed

Lastly, if the Texas court has not yet ruled on Nortel's motion to add its patents to the pending litigation between the parties in Fort Worth at the time this motion is to be decided, the present action should be stayed pending resolution of that motion in the Texas Court. Commencing discovery and/or motion practice in this Court would – potentially unnecessarily – consume the resources of the parties and this Court. Moreover, neither party would be prejudiced by the short delay that may result by waiting for the court in Texas to rule on Nortel's motion to add its patent claims. Given the opportunity to conserve private and judicial resources and the lack of any concrete harm to any party by doing so, this Court should stay this action until the proper jurisdiction for the assertion of Nortel's patent claims against Vonage has been determined.

II. CONCLUSION

For the reasons discussed herein, Nortel respectfully requests that its motion be granted and this action be dismissed, or in the alternative, transferred or stayed.

VONAGE HOLDING CORP.'S MOTION FOR LEAVE TO SUBMIT SUR-REPLY TO NORTEL'S REPLY TO VONAGE'S OPPOSITION TO MOTION FOR LEAVE

Infringement Plaintiff Vonage Holdings Corp. ("Vonage") respectfully requests that this Court grant it leave to file the Sur-reply attached at Exhibit A in order to respond to inaccurate statements in Nortel's Reply to Vonage's Opposition to Motion for Leave to amend its counterclaims (the "Nortel Reply"). In support, Vonage would show:

Case 4:04-cv-00548 Document 275 Filed 09/07/2007 Page 2 of 7

1. On July 17, 2007, Nortel filed its motion for leave to amend its response to Vonage's counterclaims, filed March 19, 2007.

2. Vonage opposed Nortel's motion on August 7, 2007, and Nortel replied on August 22, 2007.

3. As explained more fully in the attached Sur-reply, the Nortel Reply inaccurately states facts and ignores relevant facts relating to the adverse and prejudicial effect of adding three new, distinct patents (the "Nortel Patents") into this case, at this stage of its history. In particular, Nortel's suggestions that the current case schedule will not be adversely impacted are just plain wrong because:

(a) Nortel conditioned meeting the first deadline (and subsequent deadlines) of the Court's Schedule, i.e., the date for Plaintiff's claim constructions and infringement contentions, with one important and knowingly unachievable caveat – that Vonage actively respond within the next couple of weeks to recently served discovery requests by Nortel relating to the Nortel Patents, notwithstanding that the Nortel Patents are not currently part of this or any other lawsuit between the parties. In other words, Nortel has purported to burden Vonage with substantial discovery before this Court has had the opportunity to address and rule whether the Nortel Patents will become issues in the case. Vonage has advised Nortel that it objects to, and does not plan to respond to those irrelevant discovery requests. Even if this Court later grants Nortel leave to amend and add the Nortel Patents to this lawsuit, the due date for Vonage to respond to discovery requests would fall well after the September 30 deadline, thereby creating delays to the existing cutoffs. More importantly, Vonage should not be expected to complete invalidity contentions with respect to the Nortel Patents by October 31, 2007;

(b) There is no nexus – and Nortel does not even attempt to illustrate one – between the technologies covered by the patents in suit and the Nortel Patents. Therefore, the new discovery does not overlap and create efficiencies. To the contrary, inclusion of the Nortel Patents in this case at least doubles the scope and extent of discovery. That in turn would require a total restructuring of the schedule;

(c) Twice the number of patents and the resultant significant expansion of discovery, contentions, and experts means that the upcoming September 30, October 31, and November 7 deadlines, and all following deadlines will ultimately be pushed back several months; and

(d) Contrary to Nortel's claim, Vonage never negotiated the current schedule knowing that Nortel might try to claim patent infringement in this lawsuit. If anything, Vonage believed Nortel would raise any such patent claims in a separate action.

4. Finally, Nortel incorrectly asserts that Vonage, through its recent filing of a Declaratory Judgment of Noninfringement and Invalidity of the Nortel Patents in Delaware, is forum shopping. To the contrary, Vonage is more than willing to litigate the Nortel patents in this Court provided Nortel's claims are litigated in a new and separate case.

5. For the reasons stated herein, granting leave to file the attached Sur-reply will assist the Court and advance the interests of this litigation by correcting and completing the Court's record.

Case 4:04-cv-00548 Document 275 Filed 09/07/2007 Page 4 of 7

WHEREFORE, Vonage respectfully requests leave to file its Sur-reply attached as Exhibit A.

Respectfully submitted,

Dated: September 7, 2007
